Cover. Excavation trench in the Karnak temple complex reaching the earliest occupation phases at the Ptah temple site and providing a first, securely dated stratigraphic sequence. This new evidence increases our understanding of the origins and development of this famous ancient Egyptian temple complex. The Great Hypostyle hall of the Anun temple and the Obelisk of Queen Hatshepsut can be seen in the background. Photograph taken in 2016 by G. Charloux, © CNRS-Ptah Temple Archaeological Project. For further details, see 'The shifting Nile and the origins and development of ancient Karnak' in this issue by Guillaume Charloux, Mona A. Abady Mahmoud, Ahmed M.S. Elnasseh & Marchand Sylvie.
