

To the Editor:

Congratulations on your new periodical, Infection Control. The editorial material is important and interesting and the printing and layout attractive. I'm sure your publication will be of great benefit, not only to readers in this country, but to readers around the world and, more importantly, to the millions of patients in medical care facilities.

As editor and publisher of the first periodical devoted exclusively to hospital infection control, we feel it's gratifying to see not one, but three journals devoted to this subject only fifteen years after the appearance of our single-sheet newsletter entitled, "Infection Control."

Best wishes for success. We're confident you'll find an informed and interested readership.

Sincerely,

Diack Incorporated
Robert F. Smith
President

7755 Narrow Gauge Road,
Beulah, MI 49617

To the Editor:

I recently received a copy of the new journal INFECTION CONTROL. Let me congratulate you and your editorial board on an impressive inaugural issue on this important subject.

John W. Kusek, Ph.D
Assistant Professor
Epidemiology-Biometry
School of Public Health
University of Illinois at the Medical Center, Chicago
Chicago, IL 60680

To the Editor:

The first issue of Infection Control was just received and my compliments to you and your staff for introducing this publication. I hope the response was positive and you enjoy a good deal of success with it.

Marvin Goldsmith
Marketing Manager
Micro-Media Systems, Inc.
Suite 300
10000 Falls Road
Potomac, MD 20854

We Invite Your Contributions

To encourage active participation by the readers of INFECTION CONTROL, we invite you to contribute in the following ways:

1. Original articles—see "Information for Authors" in this issue for further details.
2. Brief Reports—case presentations or reports of small epidemics or pseudoepidemics. A Brief Report should include history and physical examination findings, laboratory studies, how the problem was handled, and final outcome. Complete references should be included, following the style noted in "Information for Authors."
3. Questions about problems in infection control will be answered by Editorial Board members or other experts they may designate.
4. Letters—commenting about articles published in INFECTION CONTROL or general comments about the specialty of infection control.

These contributions should be submitted to:

Richard P. Wenzel, M.D.
INFECTION CONTROL
6900 Grove Road
Thorofare, New Jersey 08086
609/848-1000
