EDITOR'S NOTE

Afghanistan and Pakistan, Russia and Iran, North Korea and China – the crucial theatres for U.S. foreign policy are the focus of extensive speeches and strategy statements this year. With negotiations underway with Iran, a strategic review in process for Afghanistan, a major counter-terrorist offensive begun by Pakistan and actions by the United States on missile placements and counter-proliferation, Foreign Policy Bulletin will be providing extensive documentation of U.S. positions. In this issue, we present the opening round of these positions, along with official statements on terrorism, Israeli settlement policy, and Iraq.

President Obama has become renowned for his speeches – indeed his speeches on foreign policy were instrumental in his being awarded the Nobel Peace Prize this year. Foreign Policy Bulletin makes these key speeches, and those by Secretary Clinton and other foreign policy officials, readily available in hard copy and in our on-line archives. Keep your subscription to FPB current to allow your students access to these key documents, and to have them easily available and indexed by topic at the touch of your keyboard.

MISSION STATEMENT

The Foreign Policy Bulletin is a reference periodical published quarterly by Cambridge University Press. Its purpose is to make available a timely and systematic record of United States foreign policy.

In addition to major addresses, statements, and other public reports and remarks of the President, Secretary of State, and Administration officials in other foreign affairs agencies, the Foreign Policy Bulletin includes excerpts from pivotal debates in the Congress; speeches and other statements by foreign and international officials; relevant texts and reports from international organizations; summaries and listings of treaties and other agreements to which the United States is a party; and other information of particular interest to the study of U.S. foreign relations.

The Foreign Policy Bulletin is not affiliated with any government or international institution, and has complete editorial autonomy.

Each issue has a name and subject index as well as a list of documents. There is an annual index at the end of each volume.

INDEXING: Included in the PAIS (Public Affairs Information Service) indexes: the PAIS Bulletin, PAIS on CD-Rom, and online through Dialog, BRS, and Data Star.
