Housing, the State and the Poor

Policy and Practice in Three Latin American Cities

ALAN GILBERT and PETER WARD

This book is concerned with the housing needs of the poor in Latin America and how they are articulated and satisfied. Based on the author's research in Bogotá, Mexico City and Valencia, it examines the aims and implementation of government policies towards low-income housing dwellers and relates those policies to the wider interests of the state. £25.00 net

The most recently published titles in the series include:

Unions and Politics in Mexico

The Case of the Automobile Industry

IAN ROXBOROUGH

On the evidence of his research in Mexico between 1977 and 1982, Ian Roxborough challenges the view that the post-war political stability and rapid economic growth were due inter alia to state control over the labour movement, and argues that control over Mexican unions had been more fragile and problematic than is widely believed. £22.50 net

The Cambridge History of Latin America

Volumes I and II: Colonial Latin America

Edited by LESLIE BETHELL

The Cambridge History of Latin America is an ambitious new project for the presentation of a contemporary understanding of the region. The first two volumes are closely integrated and together cover all aspects of the history of the colonial era. Volume I includes sections on the Indian settlements before the European invasion, the establishment of the Spanish and Portuguese empires, and the role of the Church. Volume II begins with a survey of the population of the Spanish and Portuguese colonies, and includes sections dealing with their economic and social structures and their intellectual and cultural life.

Tobacco on the Periphery

A Case Study of Cuban Labour History, 1860-1958

JEAN STUBBS

This unique study of a sector of the Cuban working class links its history to that of the tobacco industry in the wider national and international context. Dr Stubbs, who has lived and worked in Cuba for fifteen years, tells the story of the development of the industry from its nineteenth-century origins to the establishment of the communist regime.

Individual and Society in Guiana

A Comparative Study of Amerindian Social Organization

PETER RIVIÈRE

Demonstrating the insights that can be gained by employing a comparative perspective, Peter Rivière uses such an approach to show that Guianan societies, generally characterised as socially fluid, are in fact highly structured.

"This is the most important of many accounts we have of Allende. It is not only an insider's account, but an honest one."

—WALTER F. LAFEVER, Cornell University

The Last Two Years of Salvador Allende

By NATHANIEL DAVIS, U.S. Ambassador to Chile, 1971–1973. "This book provides a balanced perspective and an objectivity that is absent in much of the other writing on the period. It is likely to be one of the definitive treatments of the Allende period."—PAUL E. SIGMUND, Princeton University. $24.95

GUERRILLA WARFARE

by Che Guevara

With an introduction & case studies by Brian Loveman & Thomas M Davies Jr.

This new edition of the pivotal historical document Guerrilla Warfare makes available once more the authorized (1961) translation by J P Morray.

It also includes two later pieces by Guevara — “Guerrilla Warfare: A Method” (1963) & “Message to the Tricontinental” (1967), which modify some of his earlier tenets.

The combination of text and extensive commentary provides “a sophisticated exposition of Guevara’s works and the application of his theories to guerrilla campaigns in Central and South America.”

FOOD, POLITICS & SOCIETY IN LATIN AMERICA

edited by John C Super & Thomas C Wright.

Examining the politics and social implications of food, this collection of ten original essays addresses a largely unexplored but vital element in the dynamics of Latin America’s history and contemporary life.

Ranging chronologically from the Conquests to the present and geographically from Cuba and Mexico to the Southern Cone, the essays bring to bear perspectives from history, political science, anthropology, rural sociology, and agricultural economics.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Journal of Latin American Studies is published twice a year under the academic sponsorship of the Centres or Institutes of Latin American Studies at the University of Cambridge, Essex, Glasgow, Liverpool, London and Oxford.

The scope of the journal is the study of Latin America from the standpoint of the social sciences, including anthropology, archaeology, economics, geography, history, international relations, politics, sociology, etc., though it is not concerned with linguistic or literary studies.

Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, but welcomes free discussion of such issues in the Latin American context, on the understanding that all responsibility for opinions expressed rests exclusively with the author concerned and not with either the journal or its editors.

Contributions are invited from all parts of the world. Articles should generally not be more than 8,000 words long, and two copies, typed with double-spacing, should be submitted. Diagrams and maps may be included by arrangement with the editors. The journal is published in English, but articles written in other languages may be considered, and arrangements made as required for translation into English. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for use in correcting proofs.

All contributions and editorial correspondence should be addressed to Journal of Latin American Studies, Institute of Latin American Studies, 31 Tavistock Square, London, WC1H 9HA.

Each contributor will receive, free of charge, 25 offprints of the article and a copy of the issue of the journal in which it appears.
