Henry Parker and the English State in Civil War
The Political Thought of the Public's 'Privado'

Michael Mendle

A detailed study of the author of one of the most celebrated political tracts of the English civil war. Parker's work is placed in its polemical, intellectual, and political context, and his literary work is viewed in the light of his career as privado, or intimate adviser, to leading figures of the parliamentary leadership.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

- 1 All contributions, correspondence, and books for review should be sent to: The Editors, The Historical Journal, Faculty of History, West Road, Cambridge CB3 9EF.
- 2 The Historical Journal publishes articles on all aspects of history since the fifteenth century.
- 3 Articles must not exceed 10,000 words and communications 5,000 words in length.
- 4 Contributions should be typed double-spaced on A4 paper, with footnotes typed separately at the end of the contribution, and must observe the typographical and stylistic conventions of the Journal. A style-sheet is available from the Editors on request.
- 5 Authors should submit the top copy of their typescript and keep another copy to assist in their correction of proofs. When an article has been accepted for publication, the author is strongly encouraged to send a copy of the final version on computer disk (Apple Macintosh or IBM compatible PC) together with the hard copy typescript, giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word, Word or Word Perfect). However, the publisher reserves the right to typeset material by conventional means if an author's disk proves unsatisfactory.
- 6 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. Authors are also asked to provide brief details of any related article or book they are publishing elsewhere.
- 7 Authors who wish their contributions to be returned if not accepted for publication are asked to enclose return postage or international postage coupons.

A more extensive Notes for Contributors can be obtained from the Editors on request.
