Stuart J. Marsden, Manchester Metropolitan University, UK

The official journal of BirdLife International, Bird Conservation International provides stimulating, international and up-to-date coverage of a broad range of conservation topics, using birds to illuminate wider issues of biodiversity conservation and sustainable resource use. It publishes papers and reviews to promote world-wide research and action for the conservation of birds and the habitats upon which they depend.

Editor

Norman Hughes, The Royal Institute of Navigation, UK

The Journal of Navigation contains original papers on the science of navigation by man and animals over land, on sea, in air and in space, including a selection of papers presented at meetings of the Institute and other organisations associated with navigation. Papers cover every aspect of navigation, from the highly technical to the descriptive and historical. Subjects include electronics, astronomy, mathematics, cartography, command and control, psychology and zoology, operational research, risk analysis, theoretical physics, operation in hostile environments, instrumentation, ergonomics, financial planning and law.

JMBA and MBR Manuscript Submissions and Management Online from 2011

From 1 January 2011, both JMBA and MBR Journals will be managed through an online web based system using ScholarOne via the Cambridge University Press website.

All NEW MANUSCRIPTS after 1 January 2011 should be submitted through the web based system. The benefits of the new system will include:

- Rapid review process
- Online submission and tracking
- Worldwide 24/7 availability
- Access to all information in one location
- Prompt communication via e-mail

All manuscripts submitted PRIOR TO 1 JANUARY 2011 will be managed through the current email system (jmba@mba.eclipse.co.uk) until publication. These manuscripts WILL NOT require resubmission through the new online system.

The Association is a registered charity and was founded in 1884 to promote accurate researches leading to the advancement of zoological and botanical science and to increase our knowledge of the food, life, conditions and habits of British fish. The work of the Association is controlled by the Council elected annually by its subscribing members.

The Marine Biological Association, under the direction of its Council, has undertaken research in all branches of marine science and many of the results have been published in this Journal. An account of the history of the first hundred years of the Association and Journal may be found in Volume 67 (pp. 463 and 465). Summaries of the activities and research of the Association are given annually in the Report of the Council, sent to members in April, and to other subscribers with a later issue of the JMBA.

Since its foundation the Association has been supported by grants from Research Councils and by subscriptions and donations from private members, universities, learned societies, the Fishmongers' Company and other public bodies.

The Plymouth Laboratory was opened in June 1888 and, since that date, considerable additions have been made to the buildings, including a library, resource centre, extensive laboratory accommodation and seawater facilities.

In 1988 an agreement was reached between the MBA Council and the Natural Environment Research Council (NERC) to merge a large part of the Plymouth Laboratory with the NERC's Institute for Marine Science which had been in Plymouth since 1971. This new institute was called the Plymouth Marine Laboratory (PML) based at both Citadel Hill and West Hoe sites. In 2001 the MBA and PML re-established separate identities funded by Grants-in-aid from NERC. The Association and the research programme are based entirely at the Citadel Hill Laboratory. The building is shared with SAHFOS (Sir Alister Hardy Foundation for Ocean Science). The research organizations are part of the Plymouth Partnership which includes PML, the University of Plymouth and the NMA (National Marine Aquarium). Active collaboration and shared resources mutually enhance the marine research programmes of the participants.

The Marine Biological Association retains the lease of the building on Citadel Hill and continues as a very active scientific learned society with a large international membership. The MBA manages a research programme carried out by research fellows (partly funded by NERC) together with scientific visitors, publishes an International Journal, Annual Report, Newsletters and organizes scientific meetings.

Subscriptions can be paid by cash/cheque, direct debit from a UK bank account or credit card. *Subscriptions are reduced by £5 per annum if paying by direct debit.

Members of the Association have the following rights and privileges: they elect the Officers and Council annually; they are entitled to receive the Journal of the Association at the members' rate; they receive the biannual Newsletter, they have the option to apply to the Director for research facilities at the laboratory; and they have access to the resources in the library at Plymouth during working hours. Corporate members have significant additional rights and privileges, details of which can be supplied on request. Student members do not have voting rights. The Commissioners of Inland Revenue have approved the Association for the purposes of Section 16, Finance Act, 1958, and that the whole of the annual subscriptions paid by a member who qualifies for relief under the section will be allowable as a deduction from his emoluments assessable to income tax.

All correspondence should be addressed to: The Membership Secretary, Marine Biological Association, The Laboratory, Citadel Hill, Plymouth, PL1 2PB, UK (Tel: +44 (0) 1752 633207; Fax: +44 (0) 1752 633102; e-mail: membership@mba.ac.uk).
