THE DISPOSSESSED: An Ambiguous Utopia

Ursula K. LeGuin

Ms. LeGuin's 1975 Nebula Award winner and Hugo nominee. "One of the best SF novels I have ever had the pleasure to read...belonging in the company of such works as Zamiatin's WE and Huxley's BRAVE NEW WORLD."—Crawdaddy
"As a work of science fiction, it is the full flowering, the final justification of the existence of our field."

—Algol $1.75

EQUUS

Peter Shaffer

An electrifying journey into the mind of a 17-year old boy who "senselessly" and systematically blinds six horses with a steel spike. The hit of the London stage, EQUUS opened on Broadway to unqualified rave reviews, and won the Tony Award for Best Play. Playwright Peter Shaffer has also written FIVE FINGER EXERCISE, THE PRIVATE EAR, THE PUBLIC EYE and THE ROYAL HUNT OF THE SUN $1.75

THE RECOGNITIONS

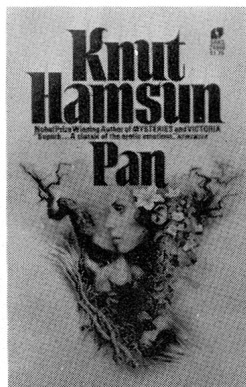

William Gaddis

A classic American novel often compared to Joyce's ULYSSES and Pynchon's "V" $2.65

PAN

Knut Hamsun, Nobel Laureate

Considered a classic of the erotic emotions Hamsun's mythical novel focuses on a passionate and tragic love affair. Of the book, Commonweal has said, "...PAN is a significant document in the history of romanticism...beautiful and true, bringing joy and fear and wonder." And Isaac Bashevis Singer comments, "In Europe, PAN was for many years a greatly treasured work, a particular favorite of young people. In a sense it is a symbolic novel: the conflict between Glahn and Edvarda is the conflict between the sexes. Their pride is the human pride that aspires to happiness and flees from it." Translated by James W. McFarlane. $1.75

MYSTERIES

Knut Hamsun

"One of the great seminal works of nineteenth-century European literature...one doubts that a more touching, powerful picture of someone in the grip of schizophrenia has ever been produced."

—Saturday Review.

MYSTERIES was written in 1892.

This translation is by Gerry Bothmer. $1.95

HUNGER

Knut Hamsun

In this classic novel, Hamsun maps out, in intense detail, the interior workings and impulses of his central character, a genius who is starving. Starving not because he cannot find a job, but because he has a need to work something out within himself and insists on proving it. "The reader is constantly astounded by the precise detail with which we come to know the character's intelligence, and by the intensity of that intelligence."—Robert Bly, in the introduction to his translation. $1.95

Kurt Hamsun's VICTORIA will be published by Avon in December.

CHARMED CIRCLE: Gertrude Stein and Company

James R. Mellow

"A meticulous and loving reconstruction of the period and the personages."—The New York Times Book Review. This portrait of Stein and the luminous talents who visited the salon at 27 Rue de Fleurus—from Appollinaire and Cocteau to Hemingway and Fitzgerald—is replete with anecdote and circumstance culled from the memoirs and letters of the times. Included are portions of Stein's own writings and a lucid analysis of the Stein-Toklas relationship. "It is James Mellow's achievement that he has told the story carefully and unpretentiously in clear, uncluttered prose."

—Times Magazine. An ALA Notable Book. $2.45

THE EYE OF THE STORM

Patrick White, Nobel Laureate

In awarding Patrick White the 1973 Nobel Prize for Literature, The Royal Swedish Academy acclaimed his "unbroken creative power, an ever deeper restlessness and seeking urge, an onslaught against the vital problems that have never ceased to engage him, and a wrestling with the language in order to extract all its power and all its nuances, to the verge of the unattainable." This is the Australian author's major novel about an aged, dying woman. "One seeks among debased superlatives for words that would convey the grandeur of THE EYE OF THE STORM"—The New York Times Book Review. $1.95

Patrick White's VOSS, THE TREE OF MAN, THE VIVESECTOR, RIDERS IN THE CHARIOT, THE SOLID MANDALA and THE AUNT'S STORY (November) are also available from Avon Books

HOPSCOTCH

Julio Cortazar

A master work of Latin American fiction, now available from Avon Books. Cortazar focuses on the experiences of an Argentinian in exile; his friends, their wanderings, their meditations on art, life and sex and their alienation. The translation won the National Book Award for Gregory Rabassa. "The most brilliant novel in years."

—New Republic. $1.95

THE MAHĀBHĀRATA

Book 2: The Book of the Assembly Hall

Book 3: The Book of the Forest

Translated and Edited by J. A. B. van Buitenen

An ancient and vast Sanskrit poem that traditionally runs to 100,000 couplets, the Mahābhārata is the most important Indian literary work in existence. This is the second volume in what will ultimately become a seven-volume edition encompassing all eighteen books of the epic poem.

When the first volume of J. A. B. van Buitenen's translation of the Mahābhārata appeared, it was hailed by Winthrop Sargeant in The New Yorker as "not only a masterpiece of scholarship and clarity but a well-organized and thoroughly documented affair." Mr. Sargeant went on to praise van Buitenen's ability to render this very complicated narrative into "the most polished, readable, and absorbing English."

NATURE AND CULTURE IN THE ILIAD

The Tragedy of Hector

James M. Redfield

To all readers of the Iliad James Redfield poses the compelling question: Why do we care about these stories which are so far from us, and which we know are not true? Redfield rediscovers this familiar classic by placing it at a distance, by describing it as expressive of the alien social conditions which produced it. He provides at once a picture of the Iliad as a unified work of art and of Homeric society as a cultural system.

This work is an important contribution to the general question of the relation between poetry and culture. It will be of interest not only to classical scholars, but to students of anthropology, comparative literature, ancient civilization, and general humanities.

THEORIES OF THE FABLE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY

THOMAS NOEL

Eighteenth-century educators and men of letters—including such influential figures as Lessing, Herder, and Rousseau—welcomed the Aesopian fable for its unique blend of didacticism, poetry, and naturalness. Dr. Noel's study concentrates on the theorists in England, France, Germany, and Spain who undertook to define the form and purpose of this remarkable literary genre.

PROSPECTS FOR THE 70'S: ENGLISH DEPARTMENTS AND MULTIDISCIPLINARY STUDY

Edited by Harry Finestone
and Michael F. Shugrue

The editors have brought together in one volume this controversial series of papers from the Interdisciplinary Conferences held by the Association of Departments of English. These provocative papers provide a stimulus for the involvement of English departments in interdisciplinary work. The English departments, it is suggested, need to flow with the social currents of the academic community. The papers discuss frankly the difficulties surrounding the introduction of interdisciplinary courses and programs that make special demands on the time and energy of individual faculty members and on limited departmental resources. The papers outline model programs that have been established and they suggest administrative strategies for experimenting with interdisciplinary study. Discussions range from "The American Scholar Reconsidered" to the methodology of "Teaching and Revolution." The collection argues for a new consciousness in the English departments and a redefining of objectives.

Prospects for the 70's will no doubt stimulate debate among all who read it.

Victorian Prose: A Guide to Research

Edited by David J. DeLaura

University of Pennsylvania

In the revival of serious interest in all things Victorian in the past two decades, the high artistry of the great nineteenth-century prose "sages" has been thoroughly established. The Victorian prose prophets, despite their very different individual points of view, turned their attention to a set of problems that have continued to absorb all serious modern readers—problems as pressing as pollution, the condition of the worker in the modern industrial process, and the role of an educated elite in a democratic society. The central role of these Victorian sages in establishing a continuing "humanistic" attitude in modern life—conservative in its concern for preserving the best values of the older culture, yet aware of the need for new and even radical solutions to the "human problem" in a new society—has been thoroughly demonstrated in recent years.

This volume advances our understanding of this highly significant and talented body of work, first by summarizing and criticizing modern studies in the field, and second by suggesting neglected aspects of thought and artistry worthy of the attention of future scholars and critics. Thirteen scholars, many of them well-known experts in Victorian studies, have here synthesized, criticized, and extended our understanding of this large and continually relevant body of work. Individual chapters are devoted to the major figures: Carlyle, Macaulay, Newman, Mill, Ruskin, Arnold, and Pater. Four omnibus chapters bring together a wide range of further topics: the Critics, the Unbelievers, the Oxford Movement, and Victorian Religion.

This volume will prove indispensable to all serious students of the literature, history, and culture of nineteenth-century England.

Association of Departments of English

- Faculty Workload and Class Size
- Salary Surveys
- Graduate Enrollments
- The Teaching of Writing
- Tenure
- Freshman English
- Curriculum for the Non-major
- The Evaluation of Teaching

ADE was established in 1963 and since 1965 has been a part of the Modern Language Association. During the eleven years of its existence the organization has served the professional needs of department administrators in all matters concerning the efficient and smooth management of English departments. The governing board of ADE consists of representatives from private and public universities, established and emerging private and public four-year colleges, and junior and community colleges. The coordinator of ADE serves in a dual capacity as both Director of the English Program for the Modern Language Association and Coordinator of the Association.

MEMBERSHIP

Membership in ADE is open to the chief administrative officer of any department of English in a junior/community college, four-year college, or university in the United States and Canada. Annual dues of $35.00, most often considered an institutional expense and paid by the college or university, entitle each chairperson to the following:

FOUR ISSUES OF THE ADE BULLETIN

A sampling of topics which will appear in the 1974/75 issues of this periodical include the findings of a survey on the teaching of freshman English in over 500 colleges and universities and a survey of salaries at major American universities, as well as articles on problems in part-time employment, enrollments in graduate programs, and information which can help department administrators establish policy relating to staff, department management, curriculum, grants, and similar matters.

ADE-SPONSORED SEMINARS AND MEETINGS

Sessions on such subjects as the responsibility of English departments to today's college student, curriculum reform, successful community college English programs, and part-time employment will be held this year in conjunction with the annual convention of the Modern Language Association. ADE will also sponsor sessions at NCTE, CCCC, CEE, CEA, and all regional CONFERENCES ON ENGLISH IN THE TWO-YEAR COLLEGE. A week-long seminar focusing on issues and concerns of department chairpersons will be held next June. Notices of these and all other meetings will appear in the Bulletin.

FOUR ISSUES AND A SUMMER SUPPLEMENT OF THE JOB INFORMATION LISTS

Department chairpersons may advertise job openings or the absence of such openings free of charge in the MLA/ADE Job Lists, which each member receives as part of membership in ADE. The Lists provide a department administrator with national distribution of information concerning jobs available at the same time that they save chairpersons and graduate students innumerable hours of correspondence with colleges and universities which have no vacancies available.

For membership in ADE, send a check for $35.00 to Elizabeth Wooten, Coordinator, ADE, 62 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10011.

The English Romantic Poets

A Review of Research and Criticism

THIRD EDITION

Edited by Frank Jordan, Jr.

Miami University

This third edition of The English Romantic Poets: A Review of Research and Criticism brings up to date the survey made originally in 1950 and revised in 1956 by T. M. Raysor and other eminent Romantic scholars under the sponsorship of the English 9 Group of the MLA. The revised chapters record and describe the books and articles published since the second edition, and reflect the new perspectives on Romanticism especially and on literary studies generally that have developed in the past decade and a half.

The contents include:

The Romantic Movement—FRANK JORDAN, JR. (original chapter by Ernest Bernbaum)

Wordsworth—Ford T. Swetnam, Jr. (Ernest Bernbaum and James V. Logan, Jr.)

Coleridge—MAX F. SCHULZ and RENÉ WELLEK (T. M. Raysor)

Byron—ERNEST J. LOVELL, JR. (Samuel C. Chew)

Shelley—DONALD H. REIMAN (Bennett Weaver)

Keats—DAVID PERKINS (Clarence D. Thorpe)

Sixteen-year old Robert "Red" Penn Warren shyly showed him his first poetry. T. S. Eliot was his friend "Tom". And he never did get any of Alice Toklas' American cake, "not even much education" at Gertrude Stein's soirees . . .

The mellow, intimate recollections of the literary life by one of America's most distinguished men of letters.

Memoirs and Opinions: 1926-1974 Allen Tate

Called by his contemporaries America's greatest living poet and critic, Allen Tate here reflects on fifty years at the forefront of literature, remembering friends who include John Crowe Ransom, Hart Crane, Ernest Hemingway, John Peale Bishop, Sylvia Beach, and Ford Maddox Ford.

Also collected for the first time are ten of Tate's finest critical essays on Poe, Valery and Frost, Faulkner, James and Joyce, reflecting a mind committed to precise, balanced, and above all, honest judgements.

"A delight to read and reread. One is grateful for the revelations that illuminate Tate's personal life . . . a life lived with rare dedication to literature and ideas." Cleanth Brooks.

THE USE OF MANUSCRIPTS IN LITERARY RESEARCH
Problems of Access and Literary Property Rights

BY JAMES THORPE

At long last a publication that saves the inexperienced student or scholar from the confusions and uncertainties in the use of literary manuscripts. Since libraries and private collections rightfully safeguard manuscripts from irresponsible use and because manuscripts have certain legal protection, scholars are often frustrated in the freedom they need and baffled in how to go about getting it.

In this informative and lively pamphlet, Dr. Thorpe, with his many years as a library director, has condensed a vast amount of information gathered from experienced scholars and heads of libraries throughout the world. He gives sage advice on how to locate manuscripts, how to use libraries and private collections, and how to carry on research at a distance. The many varieties of situations in gaining access to manuscripts such as admittance, regulations governing use, the making of photocopies, and permissions to publish are all clearly explained. The scholar will acquire all the basic facts of literary property rights he needs with an abundance of examples.

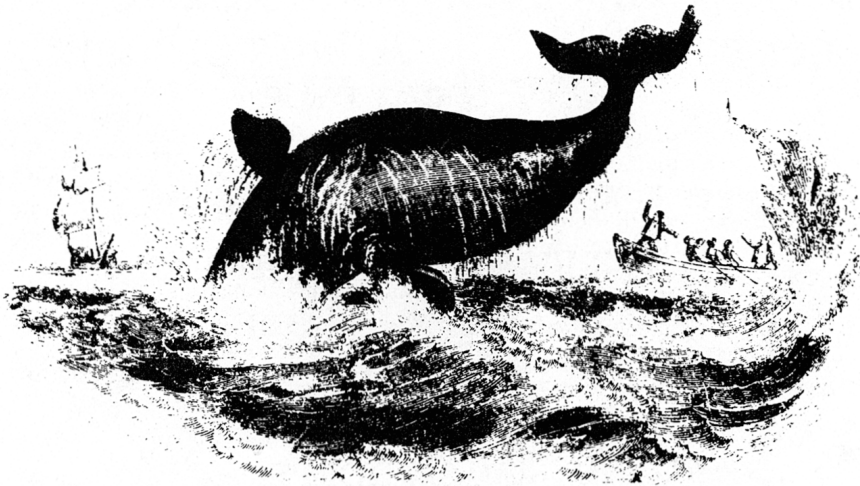

As a by-product of this publication, Dr. Thorpe hopes that some out-moded practices will be altered. Changes are due, and the pamphlet is replete with suggestions and salient reflections.

The Puritan Origins of the American Self

Sacvan Bercovitch

Mr. Bercovitch's subject is the development of the concept of American identity; his method is comparatist, to specify the uniqueness of that development; and his discussion, centering upon the interaction of language, myth, and society, explores the Puritan achievement in its broadest cultural context. $15.00

Twentieth-Century Russian Literary Criticism

Victor Erlich, editor

The vitality and diversity of modern Russian literary criticism are manifest in this volume's seventeen essays, most of which appear here in English for the first time. Critical perspectives and individual styles ranging from the symbolists to contemporary Soviet critics are represented, with a proportionately large number of selections from the formalists. $15.00

Anthology of Poems on Affairs of State

Augustan Satirical Verse, 1660-1714

George deF. Lord, editor

Here at last is the long-awaited and lively selection from the authoritative seven-volume Yale edition of Poems on Affairs of State. It provides both the general reader and the student of English literature and history with a full and coherent account of many aspects of a rich and crucial period in England's development.
