

Can genetically transmitted obesity be ascribed to an adipose tissue defect? By C. J. MEADE, MARGARET ASHWELL, P. B. MEDAWAR and C. SOWTER	114A
Costs of maintenance and growth in genetically obese (obob) mice. By C. J. H. WOODWARD, P. TRAYHURN and W. P. T. JAMES	115A
Use of 13-methyl-myristic acid as an indicator of adipose tissue turnover rates at various sites in rat and man. By P. G. PITTET, D. HALLIDAY and R. A. KLEIN	116A
Changes in blood metabolites following the acute ingestion of various amounts of glucose, fructose, sucrose and sorbitol. By I. MACDONALD and ANNE KEYSER	117A
Effect of insulin on protein turnover in foetal lambs. By S. CHRYSSTIE, JANE HORN, I. SLOAN, M. STERN, D. NOAKES and M. YOUNG	118A
A survey of food habits and attitudes to diet among pregnant women and mothers of young children. By N. RUCK and R. PARISH	119A
Anaemia in infancy. By D. BURMAN and D. STEVENS	120A
A dietary survey of the aged in the Southern Nigerian populations. By D. O. NNANYELUGO, U. O. AKPANYUNG and L. O. KUBIANGHA	121A
Estimation of nitrogen metabolism in man using ¹⁵ N-labelled yeast protein. By D. HALLIDAY and W. W. C. READ	122A
Free amino-nitrogen levels across the hindquarters of sheep. By MARGARET I. CHALMERS, I. GRANT and F. WHITE	123A
Availability of methionine and lysine in sorghum grain in relation to the tannin content. By J. E. FORD	124A
Influence of polyethylene glycol and related compounds on the nutritional availability of methionine in a high-tannin sorghum and in field beans. By J. E. FORD	125A
Influence of polyethylene glycol on digestibility of the protein in high-tannin sorghum in rats and chicks. By J. E. FORD and D. HEWITT	126A
Duodenal glucose infusion and hepatic enzyme activities in sheep. By E. F. UNSWORTH and J. PEARCE	127A
Effect of different volatile fatty acid proportions on nitrogen balance in lambs fed entirely by ruminal and abomasal infusions. By E. R. ØRSKOV and D. A. GRUBB	128A
The effect of alkali and urea on ground and pelleted all-straw diets for sheep. By E. L. MILLER, I. L. JOHNSON, M. C. E. BRIGGS and R. G. KEMPSEY	129A
A concentrated solution containing urea, phosphorus, calcium and sodium for supplementation of oat straw-based diets given to beef cows. By R. G. HEMINGWAY, J. J. PARKINS and G. FISHWICK	130A
How linoleic acid (C18:2) affects the response of guinea pigs to basic protein. By C. J. MEADE, J. MERTIN, JINAN SHEENA and RUTH HUNT	131A
An automated optical emission spectrometer for ¹⁵ N analysis. By J. D. S. GOULDEN and D. N. SALTER	132A
A simple unit for extracting protein in bulk from leaves. By J. B. BUTLER and N. W. PIRIE	133A

Ephedrine, a thermogenic and potential slimming drug. By M. MASSOUDI and D. S. MILLER	135A
The effect of ephedrine on the oxygen consumption of fed and fasted subjects. By ELIZABETH EVANS and D. S. MILLER	136A
The effect of fasting and refeeding on whole-body protein synthesis in the rat. By C. C. LO and D. J. MILLWARD	137A
The unreliability of urinary 3-methylhistidine excretion as a measure of muscle protein degradation in sheep. By C. I. HARRIS and G. MILNE	138A
The effect of increasing the dietary lysine concentration on food intake and growth in the Zucker rat. By J. D. RADCLIFFE	139A
Intravenous glucose tolerance and insulin secretion in growing offspring of congenitally malnourished rabbits. By M. R. TURNER, J. S. BRYANT and J. C. CARTER	140A
Water supplies and nutritional status in rural Northern Nigeria. By A. M. TOMKINS, B. S. DRASAR, A. K. BRADLEY and A. WILLIAMSON	141A
Acid and pepsin secretion in young pigs reared solely by the sow or supplemented with solid food and weaned at 21 d. By P. D. CRANWELL	142A
The effect of by-passing the jejunum of 9-14 day old pigs on the activities of three enzymes in it later in life. By R. A. MCCANCE, A. W. WILKINSON and C. A. ARTAVANIS	143A
The digestibility of wheat starch and maize starch by the preruminant calf. By D. G. EDWARDS and P. BARRE	144A
Long-term effects of level of intake and diet composition on the performance of lactating dairy cows. 1. Milk yield and live weight change. By W. H. BROSTER, J. D. SUTTON, J. A. BINES, T. SMITH, J. W. SIVITER and V. J. BROSTER	145A
Long-term effects of level of intake and diet composition on the performance of lactating dairy cows. 2. Voluntary intake and ration digestibility in heifers. By J. A. BINES, D. J. NAPPER and V. W. JOHNSON	146A
Long-term effect of level of intake and diet composition on the performance of lactating dairy cows. 3. Milk composition and rumen fermentation. By J. D. SUTTON, W. H. BROSTER, E. SCHULLER, T. SMITH and D. J. NAPPER	147A
The effect of added tallow on the rumen digestion rate and microbial populations of sheep fed dried grass. By C. HENDERSON, C. S. STEWART and R. S. HINE	148A
Absorption of volatile fatty acids in different compartments of the ruminant stomach. By B. M. EDRISE and R. H. SMITH	149A
The effect of level of feeding on the extent of digestion and mean retention time of alkali-treated straw given as part of a complete diet to sheep. By I. L. JOHNSON, T. C. HOLFORD and E. L. MILLER	150A
The metabolizable energy value of high-lysine barleys. By I. L. JOHNSON and K. J. CARPENTER	151A
Measurement of protein degradation in the rumen. By O. E. MOHAMED and R. H. SMITH	152A
Effect of degradation in the rumen on dietary protein entering the ruminant duodenum. By R. H. SMITH and O. E. MOHAMED	153A

FORTHCOMING ISSUE

It is hoped to publish in the next issue of the Proceedings of the Nutrition Society reports of symposia on The Application of Human and Animal Calorimetry, Nutrition in Hospitals, and Nutrition and Neurochemistry, and the abstracts of communications presented at the meeting of 15 December 1977.

NUTRITIONAL ASPECTS OF FOOD AND AGRICULTURAL POLICIES IN THE UK
Chairman: F. AYLWARD, Emeritus Professor of Food Science, University of Reading

	PAGE
Food and agriculture policies in different countries. By F. AYLWARD	227
Monitoring the nutritional status of the UK population. By SYLVIA J. DARKE	235
Food supplies in the United Kingdom. By A. H. J. BAINES	241
Food habits in Britain. By D. H. BUSS	247
Growth in British agriculture: 1945 to present day. By A. WINEGARTEN	255
Land as a constraint on food production. By J. C. BOWMAN	261
Energy and other inputs as constraints on food production. By K. L. BLAXTER	267

Chairman: SIR KENNETH BLAXTER, Rowett Research Institute, Bucksburn, Aberdeen

Waste in the food system. By R. A. LAWRIE	275
Making the most of fish supplies. By G. H. O. BURGESS	285
The better use of plant foods. By B. J. F. HUDSON and W. J. BRAY	293
The production of fruit and vegetables in kitchen gardens and allotments. By P. KEMP	301
The need for change in food habits from a medical viewpoint. By A. S. TRUSWELL	307
Potential for change in food habits in the United Kingdom population. By J. C. MCKENZIE	317
Potential for change in the food industry. By A. G. WARD	325
The potential for change in British agriculture: technical aspects. By W. HOLMES	333
Agricultural structure in the UK and the influence of the EEC. By J. S. MARSH	341
The promotion of nutrition and food by the Ministry of Food in 1940-54. By PATTY FISHER and FREDA PATTON	349

ABSTRACTS OF COMMUNICATIONS

*Three Hundred and Fifth Scientific Meeting
Royal Society of Medicine, London W1M 9AE
24 MAY 1977*

The energy values of carbohydrates: should bomb calorimeter data be modified? By R. J. JACKSON and W. B. DAVIS	90A
A study of the energy balance of a woman on varying energy intakes during 14 months. By N. N. GHALI and J. V. G. A. DURNIN	91A
Nutrient intakes in relation to income levels in Ireland. By P. K. UPTON and M. J. GIBNEY	92A
Dietary intakes of fat and fatty acids in six social groups in Ireland. By M. J. GIBNEY and P. K. UPTON	93A
Reduction of serum cholesterol in type II hyperlipidaemia by guar gum. By D. J. A. JENKINS, A. R. LEEDS, BRENDA SLAVIN, J. MANN and E. M. JEPSON	94A
An investigation in rabbits of the 'immunological' theory of atherogenesis. By CAROL A. MUIR, T. G. TAYLOR and K. A. MUNDAY	95A
A survey of the attitudes of members of the Nutrition Society to current hypotheses relating diet and health. By C. L. BROWN, A. M. BROWN and D. J. NAISMITH	96A
The influence of breakfast habits on vitamin status in the elderly. By D. I. THURNHAM	97A
A comparison of anaemia and storage iron deficiency in working women. By E. FAIRHURST, T. L. C. DALE and B. D. RIDGE	98A
New thoughts on catch-up growth. By J. L. SMART, E. A. BYRNE and J. DOBBING	99A
The effects of supplementary tube-feeding used in an attempt to increase the food intake of rats fed on a low-protein diet. By K. MADI and C. R. C. HEARD	100A
Dietary zinc deficiency and excess on carbonic anhydrase activity in reproductive organs of rats. By W. H. PARRY and S. R. R. RAO	101A
Changes in water intake, urine production and salt metabolism in lead-poisoned sheep. By J. QUARTERMAN, J. N. MORRISON and E. MORRISON	102A
The role of phospholipids and bile in lead absorption. By J. QUARTERMAN, J. N. MORRISON and W. R. HUMPHRIES	103A
The effect of thiomolybdate on copper metabolism in the sheep: a cautionary note. By T. T. EL-GALLAD, I. BREMNER and C. F. MILLS	104A
Influence of the dietary content of molybdenum and sulphur upon hepatic retention of copper in young cattle. By C. F. MILLS, A. C. DALGARNO, I. BREMNER and T. T. EL-GALLAD	105A
Salivary and pancreatic lipases of the pruruminant calf. By JOYCE TOOTHILL and S. Y. THOMPSON	106A
A rat growth assay for the potency of foods as a source of niacin. By E. G. CARTER, R. F. HURRELL and K. J. CARPENTER	107A

*Three Hundred and Seventh Scientific Meeting
The Clinical Research Centre, Harrow, Middlesex
12 SEPTEMBER 1977*

The prevalence of obesity in working populations in London. By MARGARET ASHWELL and W. R. S. NORTH	109A
Morphological and metabolic site differences in human subcutaneous adipose tissue. By MARGARET ASHWELL, MERRIL DURRANT, SUSAN STALLEY and J. S. GARROW	110A
How a 'fat cell pool' hypothesis could account for the relationship between adipose tissue cellularity and the age of onset of obesity. By MARGARET ASHWELL, MERRIL DURRANT and J. S. GARROW	111A
Weight loss, resting metabolic rate, physical activity and body composition in obese women on a reducing diet. By J. S. GARROW, D. HALLIDAY, R. HESP, S. F. STALLEY and P. M. WARWICK	112A
Investigations into patient responses to feeding low- and high-energy foods. By MERRIL DURRANT and SHIRLEY MANN	113A
