

SAY GOODBYE TO international law as we knew it.

To old ideas about environmental regulation, global financial transactions, and the traditional hierarchies of domestic and international courts.

SAY HELLO TO international law as we're getting to know it.

One which recognizes that there are fewer degrees of separation between issues once treated in isolation. Like foreign investment and human rights. Or labor relations in one country and capital markets on the other side of the globe.

AT THE FOREFRONT OF THIS PRACTICE IS COLUMBIA.

Through joint programs with the U.N., as well as the Columbia Business School and School of International and Public Affairs. On campus, you'll find endowed centers for Chinese, Japanese, and Korean legal studies. Elsewhere, you'll find double-degree programs with law schools in Paris, Frankfurt, and London. And everywhere we are, you'll see pioneering scholarship on everything from climate change law to international terrorism.

All of it developing just as fast as the world is changing. And that's pretty fast indeed.

The USC Gould School of Law is home to one of the nation's largest, most comprehensive LL.M. programs for foreign lawyers. But to our international students, we're just "home."

For 10 years, USC Law's LL.M. program has welcomed international attorneys, judges, government officials, prosecutors, corporate legal counsel, bankers, and recent law graduates who seek a degree in American law and new leadership opportunities in the global market. Drawing on 45 full-time faculty and more than 50 adjunct professors with legal expertise in a variety of areas, students choose from a myriad of courses each semester and tailor their courses in a specialty area.

But most important for our students is the end-to-end service we provide – including travel and visa arrangements, orientation, and networking and social activities – for each one of our nearly 150 students. We also maintain strong ties to an alumni network spanning more than 50 countries.

USC Law's commitment to international legal education and scholarship also includes a Master of Comparative Law degree program, a Visiting International Program for Lawyers (VIP) program, a four-week Summer Law & English program, and four J.D. study-abroad programs in Hong Kong, Milan, Lyon, and Queensland, Australia.

Announcing a Major New Reference Work in Public International Law

THE MAX PLANCK ENCYCLOPEDIA OF PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL LAW

FULLY REVISED AND UPDATED PRINT EDITION - 10 VOLUME SET

General Editor: Rüdiger Wolfrum, Director of the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law

"This monumental resource will be useful for scholarly researchers and practitioners in the area of public and international law."

—Shannon Graff Hysell, American Reference Books Annual

Written by over 800 of the world's leading authorities and edited at the premier research institution for international law, this new edition of the definitive reference work on international law contains over 1,600 articles covering the full breadth of the subject. Articles address the history and theory of international law; all sub-fields such as international criminal law, environmental law, and economic law; leading cases; and significant treaties, organizations, armed conflicts, and geographical issues.

Each article contains cross-references to related articles, and includes a carefully selected bibliography of the most important writings and primary materials as a guide to further reading. Every article has been thoroughly peer reviewed giving readers total confidence in the quality and accuracy of the content.

FEATURES

- Print edition of the leading reference work in international law
- Written by over 800 scholars and practitioners drawn from all over the world
- Recommended for practitioners, scholarly researchers, professors and students of international law
- Each article has been rigorously peer reviewed by the members of the advisory board with relevant specialist expertise
- Reflects modern developments with greatly increased coverage of international criminal law, international dispute settlement, trade law and environmental law
- More than 700 new topics not covered in the previous edition

Yearbook of International Organizations

Edited by the Union of International Associations

ISSN 2211-3010

The Yearbook of International Organizations is a comprehensive resource of intergovernmental (IGOs) and international nongovernmental organizations (INGOs) worldwide.

For more detailed information on the print and online version, visit: brill.nl/internationalorganizations

The Union of International Associations (UIA) is a research institute and documentation centre, based in Brussels. It was founded over one hundred years ago, by Henri La Fontaine (Nobel Peace Prize laureate of 1913), and Paul Otlet, a founding father of what is now called information science. Non-profit, apolitical, independent, and non-governmental in nature, the UIA has been a pioneer in the research, monitoring and provision of information on international organizations, international associations and their global challenges since 1907. The Role of Judicial Procedures in the Process of the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes by Mariko Kawano.

The Charter of the United Nations provides for two features of the International Court of Justice; the principal judicial organ of the UN and the institution to be chosen by the parties to an international dispute which enjoy the freedom of choice of the peaceful means to settle their dispute. Thus, while the Court has an independent and authoritative status as a judicial organ in the international community, its jurisdiction is based on the consents expressed by the sovereign States parties to a respective dispute. It should also be noted that the Court is expected to contribute to the process of the peaceful settlement of international disputes as one of the principal organs of the UN. The present lecture discusses the roles to be played by the Court in the present international community through close and extensive examination of its jurisprudence. All the Missing Souls

A Personal History of the War Crimes Tribunals

David Scheffer

"Few persons have been so intimately involved as David Scheffer in the contemporary emergence of international criminal justice. His insightful book shows not only his important role in bringing about the tribunals and the International Criminal Court, but also reveals the inner workings of the international legislative processes."

—M. Cherif Bassiouni, DePaul University

"Pioneering. . . . From the indictment of Slobodan Milosevic in Kosovo to the trial of Charles Taylor in Sierra Leone, Scheffer recounts the highlights of this 'truly international counterattack on impunity for the worst possible crimes.' Reflecting after nearly a decade of battles, the author writes that international justice is the art of the possible and requires endless patience and persistence. . . . An important resource for scholars and specialists in international law."

The Right to Development and International Economic Law

Legal and Moral Dimensions

Isabella D Bunn

The United Nations is commemorating the 25th anniversary of the 1986 Declaration on the Right to Development. The UN now aims to mainstream the right into its policies and operational activities, and is reviewing prospects for an internationally-binding legal instrument. The evolution of the right to development, however, has been dominated by debates about its conceptual validity and practical ramifications. This book examines the legal and moral foundations of the right to development, addressing the major questions in the debate.

Isabella D Bunn is Professor of Ethics at the Florida Institute of Technology, College of Business.

The Practice of International and National Courts and the (De-)Fragmentation of International Law

Edited by Ole Kristian Fauchald and André Nollkaemper

Against the background of differing normative appraisals of the phenomenon of fragmentation, this book aims to enhance our understanding of how international and national courts can, and do, contribute to or mitigate problems associated with fragmentation. It contains case studies from international regimes and from various national jurisdictions, providing an improved basis for conclusions to be drawn in the final chapter. In particular this conclusion examines the principles and techniques that international and national courts have applied to counteract the negative effects of fragmentation.

Ole Kristian Fauchald is Professor of Law at the Department of Public and International Law, University of Oslo. André Nollkaemper is Professor of Public International Law and Director of the Amsterdam Center for International Law.

The Concept of Unity in Public International Law

Mario Prost

'Fragmentation' has become a defining metaphor of international law scholarship in the era of globalisation. Some accept while others oppose the idea of fragmentation; some see it as a new development, others as history repeating itself; some approach it as a technical issue and some as the reflection of deeper political struggles. But there is near-consensus about the fact that something is happening today which challenges established visions of international law as a unitary whole. At the same time, the concept of unity, which lies at the very core of the fragmentation debate, is hardly ever rationalised in the literature. As a rule, the notion of unity is more assumed than explained. Unity is presented as fragmentation's theoretical opposite but its meaning remains vague and intuitive. This book attempts to dispel that vagueness by exploring the various possible meanings of the concept of unity in international law.

Mario Prost is a Law Lecturer at Keele University.

Multilevel Regulation of Military and Security Contractors

The Interplay between International, European and Domestic Norms

Edited by Christine Bakker and Mirko Sossai

This book analyses and discusses the interplay between international, European, and domestic regulatory measures in the field of private military and security companies (PMSCs). It presents a comprehensive assessment of the existing domestic legislation in EU Member States and relevant Third States, and identifies implications for future international regulation.

Christine Bakker is a Research Fellow at the European University Institute in Florence.

Mirko Sossai is lecturer in international law at the University of Rome III.
