Family and Fortune

Studies in Aristocratic Finance in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries

By LAWRENCE STONE, Princeton University. A sequel to The Crisis of the Aristocracy 1558-1641, this volume presents a series of narrative family histories. The author shows how, in individual cases, the role of personality, biological accident and more general forces at work in the society interacted to determine the fortunes of one family after another over a two hundred year period. 3 figures, 6 tables. $12.50

Lloyd George: Family Letters, 1885-1936

Edited by KENNETH O. MORGAN. These letters, taken from the two thousand now in the National Library of Wales, are mainly from Lloyd George to his first wife. They present a unique source of information about his marriage and earlier political career and provide unexpected insight into the politics and personality of one of the dominant figures in modern British history. 12 plates. $14.50

Liberal Politics in the Age of Gladstone and Rosebery

A Study in Leadership and Policy

By D. A. HAMER. "Hamer has attempted, with good success, to bring order and definition to a very confusing problem in British political history — the condition of the Liberal party in the late Victorian period. . . . Highly recommended for all academic libraries." —Library Journal. "The treatment is as fascinating as the materials are original and copious. . . . The best general history of British Liberalism that we have." —The Economist $16.25

The Liberal Imperialists

The Ideas and Politics of a Post-Gladstonian Élite

By H. C. G. MATTHEW. Political weakness and ideological confusion characterized the Liberal party after 1886. This book considers the efforts of the Liberal Imperialists to gain control of their party, to develop a new view of liberalism, and to apply their ideas to a wide range of policy matters. (Oxford Historical Monographs) $17.75

The Nobility of Later Medieval England

The Ford Lectures for 1953 and Related Studies

By the late K. B. McFARLANE. The first of several projected volumes of K. B. McFarlane's lectures and papers, this collection centers on his 1936 lecture "The English Nobility 1290-1536." Four supplemental papers discuss Edward I's treatment of his earls, survey the English nobility in the later Middle Ages, examine the education of the nobility, and consider the Crown and Parliament. $13.75

JOHN CARTWRIGHT

JOHN W. OSBORNE

(Conference on British Studies Biographical Series)

A biography of Major John Cartwright (1740-1824), the advocate of radical reform whose ideas lay behind the working-class Chartist Movement. Dr. Osborne analyzes Cartwright's political plans against the background of contemporary English radicalism and of social and political change. He shows how Cartwright, a member of the landed gentry trying to understand rapidly changing conditions, still retained a high degree of traditionalism. $12.95

PARLIAMENTARY REFORM 1640-1832

JOHN CANNON

A comprehensive study of parliamentary reform from the days of the Commonwealth to the Reform Act of 1832. Dr. Cannon combines recent specialist work on aspects of the reform agitation with his own research into electoral history to produce a synthesis of interest to all concerned with 17th, 18th and 19th century British history.

A final interpretive chapter questions many conclusions of recent years about the Reform Act and suggests that the political achievement of the measure is often underestimated.

Cloth $17.50 Paper $6.95

ANGLO-SAXON ENGLAND 1

Chief Editor: PETER CLEMOES

This volume introduces a new annual publication of clothbound books dealing with all aspects of Anglo-Saxon studies. Each volume will include a bibliography of pertinent books, articles and reviews published the previous year.

Anglo-Saxon England 1 contains works on ecclesiastical, intellectual and literary history, studies in art, architecture and archaeology, and the bibliography for 1971. $19.50

REFORM AND RENEWAL

Thomas Cromwell and the Common Weal

G. R. ELTON

Using the administratives of Thomas Cromwell as a test case, Professor Elton examines the fate of Commonwealth Reform programs when efforts were made to translate them into reality. He discusses primarily reforms in the economy and reform of the law.

This book complements and extends Professor Elton's earlier works: Policy and Police: The Enforcement of the Reformation in the Age of Thomas Cromwell, The Tudor Revolution in Government, and The Tudor Constitution. Cloth $8.75 Paper $3.75

MACKINNON AND EAST AFRICA 1878-1895

A Study in the "New Imperialism"

JOHN S. GALBRAITH

A new interpretation of Mackinnon and his Imperial British East Africa Company, assigned by the government to control the British area after the 1886 partition of the mainland opposite Zanzibar.

Professor Galbraith discusses Mackinnon's earlier involvement in East Africa, the motives of the company's founders, the inter-relationships of its directors with the Imperial government, and the how and why of the company's dissolution. (Cambridge Commonwealth Series) $17.50

THE DURHAM REPORT AND BRITISH POLICY

A Critical Essay

GED MARTIN

The author challenges the interpretation that Lord Durham's Report on the Affairs of British North America, published in the London Times (1839) after his resignation as Governor General of Canada, was the starting point of the British tradition of colonial self-rule. He shows that contemporary opinion of the report was not high, and that attitudes toward colonial self-government were shaped by different and more practical considerations. (Cambridge Commonwealth Series) $9.75

Ireland in the Empire, 1688–1770

A History of Ireland from the Williamite Wars to the Eve of the American Revolution

Francis Godwin James

Based on contemporary materials and a synthesis of the works of recent scholars, Mr. James's monograph clarifies the role of Ireland in the British Empire and compares Ireland with the American colonies. The book, devoted mainly to political history, treats such subjects as the Treaty of Limerick and imperial events during the reign of George II. Harvard Historical Monographs, 68. $14.00

The British in the Caribbean

Cyril Hamshere

Cyril Hamshere presents one of the most exciting accounts of the British experience in the Caribbean from the sixteenth to the twentieth century. Among the highlights of this richly illustrated narrative are the descriptions of the great Tudor seamen, such as Hawkins and Drake, and the history of Providence, the Puritan colonization attempt in the tropics. $11.00

R. H. Tawney and His Times

Socialism as Fellowship

Ross Terrill

Economic historian, democratic socialist, educator, and British labor party activist, R. H. Tawney fertilized many worlds. This first study of his life and thought leans on unpublished materials, and interviews with more than fifty of his closest friends. Mr. Terrill, who believes in the relevance of social democracy, argues for the continuing validity of Tawney's view of socialism as fellowship. $15.00

NEW perspectives on ENGLISH HISTORY

A HISTORY OF ENGLISH CIVILIZATION

By Albert Tucker

Glendon College, York University, Canada

This narrative and interpretive account of English history from the earliest migrations to the 1960's integrates main political, diplomatic, and constitutional themes with social and cultural history. The author's approach provides insights into England as a civilization as well as a nation state. Literature, the arts, political ideas, and the social order are examined. The lives of ordinary people living through war, revolution, and profound social change are vividly portrayed. Recent historical interpretations and comparisons with continental developments are incorporated throughout. There are bibliographies for each part, nineteen text maps and a frontispiece physical map, over sixty illustrations, and an appendix with appropriate genealogical and chronological tables. 726 pages; $13.50. 1972.

SOURCES OF ENGLISH CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY

Revised Edition

Edited by the late Carl Stephenson and Frederick George Marcham

Cornell University

Now in two volumes, this well-established collection of documents relating to the development of English government is the only work of its kind. The documents, drawn from original records, include laws, charters, parliamentary debates, administrative records, judicial decisions, and royal declarations — thereby providing basic reading in English government. Each section of material covering approximately 100 years has a brief introduction to preliminary bibliographical references. An extensive bibliography on English constitutional history, enlarged and updated with this edition, concludes each volume. Vol. I: From A. D. 600 to the Interregnum; Vol. II: From the Interregnum to the Present. Vol. I: 502 pages; $6.95. Vol. II: 451 pages; $6.95. Paper. 1972.

Britain and the Sino-Japanese War, 1937-1939

A Study in the Dilemmas of British Decline

Bradford A. Lee. Important new information on the road to war in the Pacific and on Britain's decline as an Asian power is revealed in this book, which is based largely on newly opened, unpublished British government records. The book takes a fresh look at the continuing debate over appeasement and places Britain's East Asian policy within the framework of her response to a global crisis. $10.00

Henry VII

S. B. Chrimes

Chrimes demonstrates how Henry VII's regime produced pacification, orderliness, cohesion, viability in the forms and machinery of government, and a sustained effectiveness without which stability and consolidation could not have been obtained.

A volume in the English Monarchs series.

LC: 72-78947 400 pages illustrations maps $16.00

Henry II

W. L. Warren

Henry II was an enigma to his contemporaries and has elicited divergent judgments ever since. In this comprehensive re-appraisal, Warren deals with the famed crises of Thomas á Becket and Eleanor of Aquitaine, but focuses primarily on the larger scope of Henry's entire reign.

A volume in the English Monarch series.

readable introduction to one people's past.

Volume I. 400-1154.

ANGLES, ANGELS AND CONQUERORS

Joel T. Rosenthal, State University of New York at Stony Brook

A balanced study of the Anglo-Saxons from their rise to power in the wake of the Romans to their subjugation by the Norman invaders. This is not merely a political history; it explores the world of early Christian England, its economy and demography, its institutions and culture, the intellectual and creative life of its peoples. The author shows what was distinctive to the Anglo-Saxon, Anglo-Viking, and Anglo-Norman worlds, and what they shared with the medieval community of Western Europe.

214 pages, $2.95 paperbound, Spring, 1973

Volume II. 1154-1485.

THE COMMUNITY OF THE REALM

Michael R. Powicke, University of Toronto

Rather than rehash familiar narratives of the years from the mid-twelfth to the mid-fifteenth century, the author analyzes the structure and evolution of communities. Looking beneath the communities of king and court and the higher aristocracy, he depicts the social, political, and cultural activities of other groups — from university and monastery to manor, parish, town, and guild — within a framework of the events of the period.

192 pages, $2.95 paperbound, Spring, 1973

Volume III. 1450-1640.

THE PRECARIOUS BALANCE

Arthur Joseph Slavin, University of California at Los Angeles

England from the years of painful recovery in the aftermath of the Black Death to the beginning of the reign of Charles I. Casting back as far as 1250, Professor Slavin shows how waves of overpopulation and famine, then plague and decimation, reduced the old tenurial and economic bases of lordship and opened the way for the survivors to move from a feudal world into the beginnings of a modern one. By demonstrating the new fluidity of money contracts between masters and men, Slavin clarifies the connections between changes in land tenure and use and the wielding of increasingly centralized political power.

288 pages, $3.95 paperbound, Spring, 1973

The fourth volume in the series, A Certainty in the Succession, by Gerald M. and Lois O. Straka, will appear this fall; the fifth volume, J. B. Conacher's work on the period from 1815 to the present, will appear next spring.

THE JOURNAL OF BRITISH STUDIES
TRINITY COLLEGE
HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT

---

The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published at Trinity College under the auspices of the Conference on British Studies. It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957) who contributed funds to the College for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history. Several Trinity alumni subsequently contributed to the fund and Trinity College now supports the publication of the Journal.

The Conference on British Studies is the official organization in the United States and Canada of scholars working in the field of British history and culture; its status as such is recognized by the American Historical Association of which it is an affiliate. Its nearly eight hundred members are drawn from forty-eight states and five provinces. It convenes twice each year, usually at New York University.

The Conference awards a prize triennially for the best first book by an American or Canadian scholar.

The Conference sponsors a considerable publications program. It publishes the Journal of British Studies at Trinity College; the British Studies Intelligencer, a newsletter, at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas; and Archives in British History and Culture, a series devoted to the publication of documents, at West Virginia University, Morgantown; and Current Research in British Studies, a quadrennial survey of research in progress in the United States and Canada, published at Southern Methodist University. The Conference has begun a new series, to be published by the Cambridge University Press, of biographical and historical studies of men and women who were makers and shapers of the English experience.

In addition to the Conference on British Studies, there are several affiliates: the Pacific Coast Conference on British Studies, Pacific Northwest Conference on British Studies (who publish Albion twice a year) the Midwest Conference on British Studies, the Southern Conference on British Studies, and the New England Conference on British Studies. Each of these vital autonomous groups has its own officers, programs, and other activities. There are also local groups centered in Los Angeles, Detroit, and Pittsburgh.

The Journal of British Studies appears twice in the academic year, in the autumn and in the spring. The annual subscription is $6.00. Checks for subscriptions and enquiries concerning advertising rates should be directed to the Business Manager, British Studies, Box 1315, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.

Volume XIII, No. 1 will be published in November, 1973.
