

Christian Responsibility

Rosemary Haughton

10/6 net

Vague noises are made in the direction of lay responsibility in the Church, but little is done. Here, a well-known author, who is also the mother of a large family, discusses what it should really mean to most of us.

Science and Modern Writing

Allan Rodway

10/6 net

The connection between science and creative literature is of fundamental importance to the writing of our time. This book is a valuable contribution to our understanding of recent work.

Vatican II

Hans Küng

6/- net

Council and Reunion and The Living Church were both responses to the call to renewal. Now Hans Küng gives an interim report on what has been achieved so far.

Ronald Knox the Priest

Thomas Corbishley, S.J.

hardbound 17/6 net

All those who delighted in the writings of Ronald Knox will delight also in this sympathetic and penetrating study by one who knew him well. There is remarkable insight here into the life and achievement of a man who, for all his fame, was essential modest and self effacing.

Two New Owlbooks

Cuba Church and Crisis

Leslie Dewart

12/6 net

Was the Cuban Revolution necessarily anti-Christian? Whose responsibility was the breakdown of relations between Cuba and the Church and Cuba and the U.S.A.? What lesson can be learnt from the revolution concerning the role of the Church in a revolutionary world?

Christians versus Violence

Stanley Windass

8/6 net

'Thou shalt not kill' and 'Love thy neighbour' are absolute commands. May we ever give way to the State's demand that we fight? Is there an acceptable way out of the present near-violent crisis?

Council Speeches of Vatican II

Edited by: Hans Küng, Daniel O'Hanlon, S.J.,
Yves Congar, O.P.

6/- net

What was actually said? Three famous theologians have selected the best of the speeches made at the Council. Speakers include Pope Paul VI, Cardinals Suenens, Léger, Bea, Archbishops Patriarch Maximos IV, Hurley, Heenen, Tracy, and very many others. Here are speeches which may be said to be ultimately responsible for much of the modern Christian revolution.

Mary, Mother of The Redemption

E. Schillebeeckx, O.P.

10/6 net

A masterly, realistic and deeply scriptural study of the place of our Lady in Christian life and thought, by one of Europe's foremost theologians, already winning a wide readership with his title Christ the Sacrament.

Mission and Grace Vol II

Karl Rahner, S.J.

11/6 net

This is the second volume of a great work in the modern Christian revival. The first volume was a best seller.

The Corinthian Mirror

Joseph Blenkinsopp, S.D.B.

12/6 net

The Christian new wave demands scriptural thought about the Church. I Corinthians speaks to us more directly than any other letter of St Paul's, and this study of it is designed to bring us a new consciousness of our community.

Priest and Layman

Albert Dondeyne

8/6 net

This book shows that the Church only has meaning in terms of the whole ecclesial community, clergy and laity together. Until we have a full dialogue between priests and people, the Church must remain ineffective.

The Four Gospels

Patrick Fannon, S.M.M.

8/6 net

How were the Gospels formed? What grafting and cross-fertilisation finally produced such a magnificent result? Can we know Jesus? Why do the gospel messages differ? These are some of the questions the author sets out to answer.

Unfinished Business

Maisie Ward

40/- net

A memoir with a difference... Maisie Ward has achieved fame as a lecturer, publisher, biographer, and apologist, each of her activities is carried out with energy and humour. She here gives an account of her life which is certainly energetic, but, above all, humorous.
