

Law & Society Review Condensed Style Sheet

Type manuscripts double-spaced on one side of the paper only. While manuscripts need not conform to this style sheet at the time of submission, all manuscripts must include an abstract, footnotes, and a list of references, and all accepted manuscripts must be revised by the authors to conform to the Review's style. The rules listed below supplement the manuscript information on the inside front cover of the Review. Authors are urged to consult Review issues in volume 26 or later for further illustrations. A detailed style sheet is available from the Editorial Office.

1. Abstracts. All manuscripts should include an abstract of not more than 100 words. No abstracts are required for review essays or comments.
2. Footnotes. Footnotes should be numbered sequentially (except for the author's footnote) and printed on pages immediately following the text (not at the foot of the page). They should contain only substantive comments and additional references not immediately relevant to the text.
3. Tables and Figures. Tables should approximate the appearance of printed tables. Figures should be camera ready; provide originals, not xerographic copies. Tables and/or figures should be placed at the end of the text, after footnotes, appendixes, and references. Their location within the text should be indicated as follows:

Table 1 about here

4. Citations. All notes that consist merely of supporting citations should be placed in parentheses in the text. For example:

In a thoughtful essay, Hayden (1991) . . .

OR

Media stories often portray the civil jury as generous (Daniels & Martin 1986:236; Hans 1989; Huber 1988).

The same general rules apply to footnote text.

5. References. References are placed at the end of the manuscript following the footnotes. The list should contain only those sources actually cited in text or notes. Give authors' names as they appear in the original source. For more than one publication by the same author, list them in chronological order, with the older item first. For more than one publication in one year by the same author, use small (lower-case) letters to distinguish them (e.g., 1970a, 1970b).

“An ‘inside story’ full of rich detail that illuminates both VMI’s institutional history and one important strand in the modern women’s movement.”

Constitutionalism and American Culture Writing the New Constitutional History

Edited by Sandra F. VanBurklee,
Kermit L. Hall, and Robert J. Kaczorowski
Foreword by Stanley N. Katz

“Constitutionalism and American Culture is a new burst of vitality in the field of constitutional history. The writers set out to enrich their subject by floodlighting the social context out of which the big decisions come, and into which their impact flows. The essays are well-written and carefully researched. They are also enlightening, sometimes startling, and always enormously interesting.”—Lawrence M. Friedman, author of A History of American Law and Crime and Punishment in American History

448 pages, Cloth $45.00, Paper $24.95

Railroads and American Law

James W. Ely, Jr.

“A meticulous and thorough history of law’s interactions with railroads in the United States. Ely addresses the work of courts, legislatures and regulatory agencies with equal aplomb. His topics include not only economic regulation, labor relations and industrial injuries but also—and more surprisingly—insolvency, criminal sanctions and wartime control. Certain to be regarded as definitive for decades to come, Ely’s study demonstrates railroad law’s profound effect on legal norms generally and on the entire system of American government.”—David Papke, author of The Pullman Case: The Clash of Labor and Capital in Industrial America

376 pages, 20 illustrations, Cloth $39.95
