

The War Ministry of WINSTON CHURCHILL

Maxwell P. Schoenfeld

"Giant among men was Churchill, and gigantic was his accomplishment. How much of the accomplishment belongs particularly to him may always defy agreement, but the overwhelming testimony of those who were best placed to know is a testimony to a great servant of the state and of the British people."

So writes the author of this in-depth study that surveys Churchill's war ministry in its entirety and measures the achievements and failures of the man and the ministry. As the only book to examine the wartime service of Winston Churchill from the standpoint of administrative history, THE WAR MINISTRY OF WINSTON CHURCHILL fills a special niche in Churchillian literature.

Schoenfeld takes Churchill and his staff through Britain's involvement in the period of independent military operations and the beginnings of that grand strategy that promised victory to the Allied Forces and shaped the course of World War II. He discusses the making of the Grand Alliance and Churchill's dealings with the leaders of France, Russia, and the United States as well as Churchill's ability to manage the military and political problems at Casablanca and to devise a strategy that would win the war. In recapturing the events of the war, the book deals not as much with the progress of combat, with battlefields and generals, as with the administrative decisions that were threshed out around conference tables among Churchill and his aides, the Chiefs of Staff, and the Allies. Its special contribution lies in the delineation of Churchill—in both his political and military roles—as the impresario who conducted the Grand Alliance, shaped Allied decisions, and struggled to secure peace for mankind.

Contents: The Making of the Prime Minister. The Politician. The Administrator. The Warrior. Building the Grand Alliance. Arcadia to Casablanca, December 1941 to January 1943. Casablanca to Normandy, January 1943 to June 1944. Normandy to Potsdam, June 1944 to July 1945. Statesman in Behalf of Mankind.

THE POLITICS OF REFORM 1884

ANDREW JONES

A detailed study of the passing of the Reform Act of 1884 and the political environment in which it took place. The book's central theme is the complex interaction of the power groups and personalities involved, including Parnell, Gladstone, Salisbury and their dissident colleagues. "An absorbing piece of close analysis . . . His 'Portrait Gallery' of the politicians concerned is tart, witty and extremely useful." — New Statesman. $19.50

LORD SALISBURY ON POLITICS

Edited by PAUL SMITH

A selection of Salisbury's articles from Murray's Quarterly Review, ranging from his criticism of Gladstone's budget and Russell's Reform Bill in 1860 to his warning of "Disintegration" (of the nation and the empire) in 1883. Each article is introduced and annotated. "It prefaces them with a hundred-page essay on Salisbury's ideas by Paul Smith, written with zest and charm, and clearly destined to become 'the first thing one reads on Salisbury'."—Spectator. $21.00

The Victorian Country House

By MARK GIROUARD. "Between 1835 and 1889 five hundred country houses of unparalleled size were built in Great Britain, and these are the subject of Mark Girouard's impressive book. . . . Not only does he discuss the social and technological conditions which shaped these buildings, he also adds the detailed history of twenty-nine of them together with a host of photographs and plates. . . . A masterly book." — NOEL ANNAN, N.Y. Review of Books. 420 plates, 35 text figures. $41.00

Philip Wilson Steer 1860-1942

By BRUCE LAUGHTON. The peculiar Englishness of Steer's landscapes led to his being characterized as the heir to Constable and Turner. This book considers Steer's art from his student work to his absorption of French nineteenth-century painting and its interaction with the influence of Turner. 216 plates. (Oxford Studies in the History of Art and Architecture.) $27.25

The Parliamentary Diary of Narcissus Luttrell 1691-1693

Edited by HENRY HORWITZ, University of Iowa. A little-known but extremely informative diary for the 1691-92 and 1692-93 parliamentary sessions, this volume is comparable in scope to the parliamentary diaries of Anchitell Grey, which it rivals in accuracy of detail and coverage of entire debates. 2 figures. $34.00

James Burnett, Lord Monboddo

By E. L. CLOYD, University of Michigan. An eighteenth-century Scottish jurist, Lord Monboddo was a notorious eccentric both in thought and personal habits. NEW perspectives on ENGLISH HISTORY

A HISTORY OF ENGLISH CIVILIZATION

By Albert Tucker

Glendon College, York University, Canada

This narrative and interpretive account of English history from the earliest migrations to the 1960's integrates main political, diplomatic, and constitutional themes with social and cultural history. The author's approach provides insights into England as a civilization as well as a nation state. Literature, the arts, political ideas, and the social order are examined. The lives of ordinary people living through war, revolution, and profound social change are vividly portrayed. Recent historical interpretations and comparisons with continental developments are incorporated throughout. There are bibliographies for each part, nineteen text maps and a frontispiece physical map, over sixty illustrations, and an appendix with appropriate genealogical and chronological tables. 726 pages; $12.95. 1972.

SOURCES OF ENGLISH CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY

Revised Edition

Edited by Carl Stephenson and Frederick George Marcham

Cornell University

Now in two volumes, this well-established collection of documents relating to the development of English government is the only work of its kind. The documents, drawn from original records, include laws, charters, parliamentary debates, administrative records, judicial decisions, and royal declarations — thereby providing basic reading in English government. Each section of material covering approximately 100 years has a brief introduction to preliminary bibliographical references. An extensive bibliography on English constitutional history, enlarged and updated with this edition, concludes each volume. Vol. I: From A. D. 600 to the Interregnum; Vol. II: From the Interregnum to the Present. Vol. I: 502 pages; $6.95; Vol. II: 451 pages; $6.95. Paper. August, 1972.

THE JOURNAL OF BRITISH STUDIES
TRINITY COLLEGE
HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT

The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published at Trinity College under the auspices of the Conference on British Studies. It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957) who contributed funds to the College for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history. Several Trinity alumni subsequently contributed to the fund and Trinity College now supports the publication of the Journal.

The Conference on British Studies is the official organization in the United States and Canada of scholars working in the field of British history and culture; its status as such is recognized by the American Historical Association of which it is an affiliate. Its nearly eight hundred members are drawn from forty-eight states and five provinces. It convenes twice each year, usually at New York University.

The Conference awards a prize triennially for the best first book by an American or Canadian scholar.

The Conference sponsors a considerable publications program. It publishes the Journal of British Studies at Trinity College; the British Studies Intelligencer, a newsletter, at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas; and Archives in British History and Culture, a series devoted to the publication of documents, at West Virginia University, Morgantown; and Current Research in British Studies, a quadrennial survey of research in progress in the United States and Canada, published at Southern Methodist University. The Conference has begun a new series, to be published by the Cambridge University Press, of biographical and historical studies of men and women who were makers and shapers of the English experience.

In addition to the Conference on British Studies, there are several affiliates: the Pacific Coast Conference on British Studies, Pacific Northwest Conference on British Studies (who publish Albion twice a year) the Midwest Conference on British Studies, the Southern Conference on British Studies, and the New England Conference on British Studies. Each of these vital autonomous groups has its own officers, programs, and other activities. There are also local groups centered in Los Angeles, Detroit, and Pittsburgh.

The Journal of British Studies appears twice in the academic year, in the autumn and in the spring. The annual subscription is $6.00. Checks for subscriptions and enquiries concerning advertising rates should be directed to the Business Manager, British Studies, Box 1315, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.

Volume XII, No. 2 will be published in May, 1973.

CONFERENCE ON BRITISH STUDIES PRIZE

The Conference on British Studies will award its fifth triennial prize of three hundred dollars in November, 1972. The prize will be given for the best book published between January 1, 1969 and December 31, 1971, by an American or Canadian scholar. It must be the author's first book. Its subject must lie either within the field of British or Commonwealth History and Culture.

Nominations should be sent to Professor Thomas Peardon, Bridgewater, Connecticut, Chairman, Conference on British Studies Prize Committee. Other committee members are R. J. Brentano, University of California, Berkeley, and H. J. Hanham, Harvard University.

The past recipients of the prize are: Philip P. Poirier, Ohio State University, 1960; C. Warren Hollister, University of California, 1963; Melvin Richter, Hunter College, 1966; Isaac Kramnick, Yale University, 1969.
