TRaNS approaches the study of Southeast Asia by looking at the region as a place which is defined by its diverse and rapidly-changing social context, and as a place which resists conventional ideas of borders and boundedness.

Book Review Guidelines

- 1. The book review should aim to be useful to established and new scholars, primarily in the field of transnational, multi-sited and interdisciplinary research on Southeast Asia.
- 2. The review should initially consider where the book positions itself in the scholarly literature.
- 3. Reviewers are advised not merely to summarise the contents of the book but rather to provide an assessment of its strengths and weaknesses. Minor factual or proofreading errors are not considered significant unless they affect the book's main arguments.
- 4. Sufficient descriptive information should be given to provide readers with a good understanding of the book's objectives and scope.
- 5. Reviewers are encouraged to refer to relevant ideas and works. These should be accompanied by references, and a bibliography (of 3-5 items) included at the end of the review.
- 6. For an edited volume,
 - 6-1 The review should consider how the chapters relate to one another and how well the volume as a whole works.
 - 6-2 The review could focus on (a) specific article/s or chapter/s which is/are considered to be significant to a field of Southeast Asian studies.
- 7. Quotations from the book should be accompanied by quotation marks and page numbers.
- 8. Book reviews should be 800-1000 words in length and should follow the attached style guide.
- 9. The review should begin by stating (a) the name of the author(s)/editor(s) of the book; (b) the book title; (c) place of publication; (d) publishers; (e) the year of publication; and (f) total number of pages of the book.
 - Example: Joseph Morgan Hodge. Triumph of the Expert: Agrarian Doctrines of Development and the Legacies of British Colonialism. Athens: Ohio University Press, 2007. 402 pp.

- 10. The review should be signed off with the reviewer's full name, institutional affiliation and e-mail address.
 - Example: James C. Scott, Yale University, james.scott@yale.edu
- 11. Reviews and queries should be sent to the book review editor, Dr Juhyung Shim: transbookreview@sogang.ac.kr
